

Titanic did not carry sufficient lifeboats, rafts, etc., and there were not enough trained seamen to man those that were lowered; nor officers to carry out emergency orders or superintend launching and control of lifeboats, say survivors.

Passengers who escaped watery grave, in statement to public, urge that an international conference be called to recommend passage of identical laws providing for safety of all at sea.

Committee from New York Stock exchange meets Carpathia with $20,000 for distribution among survivors needing assistance. Money was raised by subscription on floor of exchange.

TOTAL TITANIC DEATH LIST STANDS 1,601

ORDERS TO SMASH ALL SPEED RECORDS LED TITANIC TO DISREGARD DANGER

NEW YORK, April 18.—How the White Star liner Titanic, which was the largest ship afloat, sank off the Grand Banks of Newfoundland on Monday morning last, carrying to their death 1,598 of the 2,340 persons aboard, was told to the world in all its awful details for the first time tonight with the arrival in New York of the Cunard liner Carpathia bearing the exhausted survivors of the catastrophe.

Of the great facts that stand out from the chaotic account of the tragedy, these are the most salient:

The death list has been increased rather than decreased. Six persons died after being rescued.

The list of prominent persons lost stands as previously reported.

Practically every woman and child with the exception of those women who refused to leave their husbands, were saved. Among those lost was Mrs. Isidor Straus.

The survivors on the lifeboats saw the lights on the stricken vessel glimmer to the last; saw the doomed hundreds on her deck and heard their groans and cries when the vessel sank.

Iceberg Rips Open Sides.

Of the many accounts given by the passengers, most of them agreed that the shock when the Titanic struck the iceberg, although ripping her great sides like a giant can-opener, did not merely jar the entire vessel. For the blow was a glancing one along the side. The accounts also agree substantially that when the passengers were taken off on the lifeboats there was no serious panic, and that many wished to remain on board the Titanic, believing her to be unsinkable.

The most distressing stories are those giving the stories of the passengers in lifeboats. These tell not only of their own suffering, but give the harrowing details of how they saw the great bulk of the Titanic stand on end, stern upmost, for many minutes before plunging to the bottom.

CAPTAIN SMITH, ASTOR AND MAJOR BUTT DIED LIKE HEROES, SHE SAYS

NEW YORK, April 18.—George A. Braden (on the passenger list, George Bravon) told how Captain Smith met his death.

"I saw Captain Smith while I was in the water. He was standing on the deck all alone. Once he was swept down by a wave, but managed to get to his feet. Then, as the boat sank, he was knocked down by a wave, and this time disappeared from view."

Mrs. Churchill Candee of Washington, D. C., was taken from the Carpathia with both legs broken. She was hurried in an ambulance to a hospital. Mrs. Candee said she rejected her injuries while getting into a lifeboat. Most of the men saved, she declared, were picked up from the water, having plunged overboard after the lifeboats had been launched.

Major Archibald Butt and Col. John Jacob Astor died like heroes," she said, but before she could tell more of the story of their end, she was hurried away.

Pays Tribute to Members of Orchestra Who Played to Last

NEW YORK, April 18.—The suffering of the Titanic's passengers when taken off the lifeboats by the Carpathia was graphically told to John Kuhl of Omaha, Neb., who was a passenger on the latter vessel.

Many of the women, he said, were gently clad, and all were suffering from the cold. Five died on the Carpathia as a result of the exposure.

In spite of the suffering and crowded condition of the boats, said Mr. Kuhl, "the uttermost heroism was displayed by the unfortunate. When they were lifted to the deck of the Carpathia many of the women broke down completely, and there were many such scenes. Many of the women were hysterical and several were almost insane."

Of all the heroes who went to their death when the Titanic dived to its ocean grave, none, in the opinion of Miss Eliza Slater, a passenger on the boat to put off, deserved greater credit than the members of the orchestra.

According to Miss Slater, the orchestra played until the last when the vessel took its final plunge in strains of a lively air mingling

SUCH AN UNUSUAL REQUEST
From Everybody's Magazine.
It is the custom for the stage manager of all traveling theatrical companies to go to the theater immediately upon the company's arrival in town and lay out on a sheet of paper a list of the dressing rooms to be assigned to the various members of the company.

The stage manager of this particular company repaired to the "opry house" as soon as the troupe had landed in town. He made inquiry of an old man whom he found sweeping off the stage and who proved to be the manager about the number of dressing rooms, so that he could lay out the list for the actors.

"We have two dressing rooms," said the old man.

"But," said the stage manager, "I have a star and 30 ladies and gentlemen in my company. How can I put them in two rooms?"

"Well," replied the old man, "you can put the star in the little room and the 30 people in the big room."

"You don't seem to understand," said the stage manager. "Besides the star there are 30 men and women. How can they dress together?"

"What's the matter?" asked the old man. "Ain't they speaking?"

BIG CROWDS MEET CARPATHIA AT THE PIER; ORDER AND SILENCE PREVAILS

NEW YORK, April 18.—In a drizzling rain, 200 policemen gathered early tonight at the Cunard piers at West Fourth street and North river, preparatory to handling the crowds. Inspector McClusky was in charge of the squad, and ropes, dotted with green lights, were stretched for 70 yards in front of the piers to hold back the throng. No one without a special permit was allowed beyond these ropes.

As early as 8 o'clock automobiles in which veiled women and ladies, who were seated began arriving, and by 8:30 small crowd already had entered the great steel and concrete structure which covers the piers.

A small hotel across the way had been converted into headquarters for the newspapers and press associations, and a meeting place for those who had been bereaved or had relatives aboard the Carpathia although there was no rule for silence, everyone talked in whispers.

In this assemblage there were those who hoped against hope that some dear one was alive, although the list of survivors had failed to show their names.

The police regulations were made more rigid as the evening wore on. All traffic on West street directly in front of the piers was diverted at Fourteenth street, on the north, and at Thirteenth street, on the south. Another line was drawn on the east at Eleventh avenue. Thus, the entire block immediately in front of the piers was held sacred to those immediately concerned in the tragedy.

Shortly before 8 o'clock news came that the Carpathia was passing the Statue of Liberty. At that hour more than 50 automobiles were parking in front of the piers.

An apartment for Mr. Ismay has number of taxicabs to convey survivors secured at the Ritz-Carlton hotel.

J. P. Morgan, Jr., on Hand.

The early arrival of the Carpathia at quarantine surprised even the customs officials, 150 of whom were on the pier, under the direction of Gen. Nelson F. Henry, surveyor of the port, who came to facilitate the landing of the survivors.

Five hundred friends and relatives had gathered inside the pier sheds at 8:30 o'clock, taking up their positions under the initial customs alphabetical arrangement, each one under the initial of the name of the survivor.

The Carpathia, at this time, was a quarter of a mile down the Hudson and drawing near the dock. A stream of people was filing into the pier entrance and automobiles continued to take their places in the street.

A committee from the New York stock exchange came to the pier shortly before the Carpathia arrived, bringing $20,000 in cash to be distributed among those most in need of assistance.

bright and dramatic action of the officers restored order.

There were many touching scenes as the boats put off. I saw Colonel John Jacob Astor hand his young wife into a boat tenderly and then ask an officer whether he might also go.

When permission was refused he stepped back and coolly took out his cigarette case.

"Good-bye, dearie," he called gallantly as he lighted a cigarette and leaned over the rail. "I'll join you later."

Another man, a Frenchman, I think, approached one of the boats about to be lowered. He had with him two beautiful little boys. An officer waved him back sternly. "Boss, you," he said, "I don't want to go, but for God's sake take the boys. Their mother is waiting for them in New York." The boys were taken aboard.

Miss Simer dwelt at length on the large percentage of the crew saved.

On the boat that carried her away from the sinking ship were nine other women and more than twice as many men stokers.

"What's the matter?" asked the old man. "Ain't they speaking?"

ANNOUNCE ADDITIONAL NAMES OF SURVIVORS

NEW YORK, April 18.—The following list of additional survivors has just been announced by the Cunard line. In some cases the names do not conform with the passenger list:

First Class.

Thorne, Mrs. Gus; Compton, Mrs. and Miss (previously reported Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Compton); Meyer, Mrs. Edgar Jr. (previously reported).

Second Class.

Deystrom, Caroline (not on passenger list); Terrian, Mary (not on passenger list).

Harlin, Anna and child (probably Hamatimine, Anna and infant son); Kanton, Marian (probably Mrs. Kantar).

Ilett, Bertha; Bright, Daisy (probably Miss Dagmar Bright).

Brown, Mildred.

Lowered when a woman came running out of the companionway.

Raising his hand, Colonel Astor stopped the preparations to lower his boat, and stepping back assisted the woman into the seat he had occupied. Mrs. Astor cried out and wanted to get out of the boat with her husband, but the colonel patted her on the back and said something in a low tone of voice.

"As the boat was being lowered, I heard him say:

"The ladies will have to go first."

From the San Francisco Chronicle.

Bismuth is one of the few metals of which the United States can not or does not produce enough to supply its needs. The scarcity of bismuth in this country and the accredited control of the market by a foreign syndicate have kept the American price high, but according to the United States geological survey interest is rapidly being developed in the recovery of bismuth as a by-product in electrolytic lead refining. No large deposits of bismuth are known in the United States, but some ores mined for their gold or silver have been found to be more valuable for their bismuth than for their other mineral content. Thus, in 1910,

Colorado mine reported to the geological survey the production of ore which carried up to 18 per cent of bismuth in addition to gold and silver. The ore was smelted for the precious metals it contained, but if it had been sold for its bismuth content alone, it probably would have brought at least $185 a ton. Another Colorado mine produced during the same year ore containing 11 to 16 per cent of bismuth, the total content of the metal amounting to several tons. Though mined for gold, this ore was more valuable for its bismuth.

The imports of bismuth in 1910 were 188,174 pounds, valued at $322,668.

Passenger of Cunarder Gives Pitiable Details When Life-boats Taken On

NEW YORK, April 18.—E. Z. Taylor of Philadelphia, one of the survivors, jumped into the sea just three minutes before the boat sank. He told a graphic story as he came from the Carpathia. "I was eating when the boat struck the iceberg," he said. "There was an awful shock that made the boat tremble from stem to stern. I did not realize for some time what had happened. No one seemed to know the extent of the accident. We were told that an iceberg had been struck by the ship."

I felt the boat rise and it seemed to me she was riding over the ice. I ran on deck and then I could see ice. It was a veritable sea of ice and the boat was rocking over it. I should say that parts of the iceberg were 800 feet high had been broken into sections probably by our ship."

I jumped into the ocean and was picked up by one of the boats. I never expected to see land again. I stood on board the boat until the lights went out. It seemed to me that the discipline on board was wonderful."

Col. Archibald Gracie, U. S. A., the last man saved went down with the vessel but was picked up. He was met at night by his daughter who had arrived from Washington and his son-in-law, Paul H. Fabius.

Colonel Gracie told a remarkable story of terror and hardship and doomed sympathetically the reports that there had been no女人 on board. He praised in the highest terms the behavior of the 100 passengers and the crew and paid a high tribute to the heroism of the women passengers.

Mrs. Isidor Straus, he said, went to her death because she would not desert her husband although he pleaded with her to take her place in the boat. She steadfastly refused and when the ship settled at the head the two were engulfed by the wave that swept him.

Dumps as Ship Sinks

One woman told of how he was driven to the topmost deck when the ship settled and was the sole survivor after the wave that sank her just before her final plunge had passed.

I jumped with the wave. Said I, just as I often have jumped with the breakers at the sea-side. By great good fortune I managed to grasp the rags trailing on the deck above, and hung on my life and main. When the ship plunged down, I was forced to let go and I was whirled around and around for what seemed to be an indeterminate time. Eventually I came to the surface to find the sea a mass of tangled wreckage.

Lucky I was without a cut about my leg. I seized a wooden grating floating nearby. When I had regained my bearings, I discovered a larger canvas and cork life raft which had floated up. A man whose name I did not learn was struggling toward it from some wreckage to which he had clung. I cast off and helped him to get into the raft and we then began the work of rescuing those who had jumped into the sea and were floundering in the water.

Many Rescued from Water.

When dawn broke there were 20 of us on the raft, standing knee deep in the icy water and afraid to move lest the crack craft be overturned. Sixty unfortunates I learned had perished. Sixty-four sought to save them and only two made an effort to reach us. But we had to warn them away. Had we made our effort to save them they might have perished.

"It is that claps I before we were picked up by the Carpathia were the first and most terrible that I can remember. I artfully without insensitivity being to the use of the life jackets we almost drowning themselves. We were afraid to turn around. This is which we were swimming around and when some one who was facing astern passed the word that something that looked like a steamer was coming up, one of the men began to swim under the steam. The rest of us too were swimming the breaking point.

One Shot Fired in Air

Colonel Gracie said with emphasis that when he was picked up he declared that only one was a rescue.

This was for the purpose of intimidating some storage passengers he said who had climbed into a boat before it was prepared for launching. This shot was fired in the air and when the passengers were told that the next would be directed at them, they promptly returned to the deck. There was no confusion and no panic.

Contrary to the general expectation there was no jarring impact when the vessel struck a cord to the arm of the officer. It was in his brush when the vessel impacted into the submerged portion of the berg and was aroused by the jar. He looked at his watch, he said, and found it was just midnight. The ship sank with him at 2:22 a.m. for his watch stopped at that hour.

"Before I retired," said Colonel Gracie, "I had a long chat with Charles H. Haas, president of the Grand Trunk railroad. One of the last things Mr. Haas said was this:

Speed Records Sought.

The White Star, the Cunard and the Hamburg-American lines are devoting their attention and ingenuity in vying with each other to attain the supremacy in luxurious ships and in making speed records. The time will soon come when this will be topped by some appalling disaster. Poor fellow, a few hours later he was dead."

The conduct of Colonel John Jacob Astor was deserving of the highest praise. Colonel Gracie declared, "The millionaire New Yorker," he said, devoted all his energies to saving his young bride who was in delicate health.

Colonel Gracie, U. S. A., Who Had Remarkable Escape and Was Last Man to Get Away As Ship Went Down, Praised Behavior of All on Board. Mrs. Straus Bravely Goes to Her End With Husband

Colonel Astor helped us in our efforts to get her into the boat. I lifted her into the boat and as she took her place Colonel Astor requested permission of the second officer to go with her for her own protection.

"No, sir," replied the officer. "Not a man shall go on a boat until the women are all off." Colonel Astor then inquired the number of the boat which was being lowered away, and turned to the work of clearing other boats and in reassuring the frightened and nervous women. By this time the ship began to list frightfully to port. This became so dangerous that the second officer ordered everyone to rush to the starboard.

Last of Thayer and Widener. Thus we did, and we found the crew trying to get a boat off in that quarter. Here I saw the last of John B. Thayer and George B. Widener of Philadelphia.

Colonel Gracie said that despite the warnings of icebergs no slowing down of speed was ordered by the commander of the Titanic. There were other warnings too he said.

In the 24 hours run ending the 14th he said the ship's run was 348 miles and we were told that the next 24 hours would see even a better record posted. No diminution of speed was indicated in the run, and the engines kept up their steady running. When Sunday evening came we all noticed the increased cold which gave plain warning that the ship was in close proximity to icebergs or ice fields.

The officers I am credibly informed had been advised by wireless from other ships of the presence of icebergs and dangerous floes in that vicinity. The sea was as smooth as glass and the weather clear so that it seems that there was no occasion for fear.

First Regarded as Joke.

When the vessel struck he continued the passengers were so little alarmed that they joked over the matter. The few that appeared on deck early had taken their time to dress properly and there was not the slightest indication of panic. Some of the fragments of the hill fallen in the dock and these were picked up and passed around by some of the facetious ones who offered them as mementos of the occasion.

On the port side a glance over the side failed to show any evidence of damage and the vessel seemed to be on an even keel. James Clinch Smith and I however soon found the vessel was listing heavily. A few minutes later the officers ordered men and women to don life preservers.

One of the last women seen by Colonel Gracie he said was Miss Evans of New York who virtually refused to be rescued because according to the arms officer she had been told by a fortune teller in London that she would meet her death in that water.

Excellent Work by Fifth Officer.

A young English woman who requested that her name be omitted, told a thrilling story of her experience in one of the collapsible boats which had been manned by eight of the crew from the Titanic. The boat was in command of the fifth officer H. Lowe whose actions she described as saving the lives of many people.

Before the lifeboat was launched he passed along the port deck of the steamer commanding the people not to jump in the boats and otherwise restraining them from swamping the boat.

When the collapsible was launched Officer Lowe succeeded in putting up a mast and a small sail he collected the other boats together, in some cases the boats were short of adequate crews and he directed an exchange by which each was adequately manned.

He threw lines connecting the boats together two by two and thus all moved together. Later he went back to the wreck with the crew of one of the boats and succeeded in picking up some of those who had jumped overboard and were swimming about.

On his way back to the Carpathia he used one of the collapsible boats which was on the point of sinking with 20 passengers aboard, most of them in scant night clothing. They were rescued just in the nick of time.

HUSBAND AND WIFE PART IN ORDER TO SAVE BABY

NEW YORK, April 18.—Mrs. Edgar J. Meyer of New York, said, "When the ship struck we were in our cabin. My husband went out on the deck. He came down and said we had hit an iceberg. I said I was nervous. Several people said the accident was of no importance."

Contrary to the general expectation there was no jarring impact when the vessel struck a cord to the arm of the officer. It was in his brush when the vessel impacted into the submerged portion of the berg and was aroused by the jar. He looked at his watch, he said, and found it was just midnight. The ship sank with him at 2:22 a.m. for his watch stopped at that hour.

"Before I retired," said Colonel Gracie, "I had a long chat with Charles H. Haas, president of the Grand Trunk railroad. One of the last things Mr. Haas said was this:

Speed Records Sought.

The White Star, the Cunard and the Hamburg-American lines are devoting their attention and ingenuity in vying with each other to attain the supremacy in luxurious ships and in making speed records. The time will soon come when this will be topped by some appalling disaster. Poor fellow, a few hours later he was dead."

The conduct of Colonel John Jacob Astor was deserving of the highest praise. Colonel Gracie declared, "The millionaire New Yorker," he said, de-

ROOSEVELT WINDS UP CAMPAIGN IN NEBRASKA

LINCOLN, Neb., April 18.—Colonel Roosevelt today wound up his campaign in Nebraska for support of tomorrow's presidential primaries.

In his speeches Colonel Roosevelt repeated his assertion that President Taft had little strength in the campaign except such as he derived from the bosses. In one of his talks given at Wilber, he expressed the belief that he would win at the Chicago convention.

"We've about put an end to the use of the steamroller in national conventions," he said. "This is the last time they will try it and we'll knock them out."

AUBURN, Neb., April 18.—Colonel Roosevelt's views of the qualifications of the president were brought out in a speech which he delivered this morning at Nebraska City at the beginning of today's campaigning trip in this state.

"Often we have to try a man out," he said. "He may be a first-class lieutenant and doesn't do in command of the army. Often the lieutenant, when he becomes commander means well but means well feels, and you don't get much out of it if you have a lot of strong men around him who don't mean well at all."

After again charging that President Taft had intrusted his fate to Senator Laramie, Senator Penrose, Senator Gallinger—and others whom he characterized as opposed to the rule of the people, he added, "When I was president, I saw all those men. I consulted with them, but I didn't let them be my masters. Whenever there was a lineup between them and the people I was against them."

The colonel brought out a laugh from the crowd with a new slogan. He was speaking of the silk stocking Whigs who, he said, were against him. He added:

"The silk stocking if he is a game man, is just as good as if he didn't wear any socks at all."

Colonel Roosevelt's program called for a day's run through the southeastern section of the state, ending at Lincoln, where he is to speak tonight.

Gov. John A. Dix, who will represent the Democrats of New York State as a delegate-at-large at the national Democratic convention in Baltimore.

MYSTERIOUS SWASTIKA, GOOD LUCK EMBLEM

The Symbol Is Ancient and Has Always Been Emblematic of Good Luck

From the New York Sun—

Many of those who wear the swastika as a symbol of good luck associate it with the North American Indians, yet this symbol is so ancient that it was in use among the people who lived in the bronze age anterior to the Chaldean, Hittites or Aryans. In fact the young man who wears a swastika pin in his necktie and the young woman who fastens her hat with a silver swastika are wearing a sign which has appeared for ages among different races and has puzzled the archaeologists.

It is known that the swastika is one form of the cross. The swastika was used in ancient Troy, from the Mediterranean to the Pacific and the Arctic among the Scythians, Greeks and Trojans. The term comes from a Sumerian word used before the fourth century B. C. It is commonly seen on bronze statues of Buddha and associated with Inscriptions in the caves of India. It was carved by North American Indians and New Mexico bear this decorative.

From the London Standard

There is no doubt that some form of surgery must have existed very ancient times but it is strange that so complex and delicate operation as trepanning is one of oldest.

The swastika has been employed as a charm from China to Peru and some archaeologists contend that it is the most ancient form of the cross others say that it represents the solar movement. Buddhists affirm that it means the union of spirit and matter and their gradual evolution.

It is curious to note in how many forms of ornamentation this charm appears. In Italy it has been discovered on urns in which the dead were encased. In the Swiss lake district it was stamped on pottery, in Scandinavia it appears on carved pins and brooches. In China and Japan it was frequently employed on porcelains and sometimes used as a potter's mark and a pattern on silks. Among the Indians of North and South America cooking utensils and ornaments bear the swastika. In every instance it signifies "Multitudes of Blessings," "Long Life," "Happiness," and in modern times it stands for "Good Luck."

According to Dr. F. Rice Holmes, operation of removing pieces of bone was performed long before his time. The effects on the skull easily seen after death and are so long as the bones are preserved.

From inspection of certain skulls the later stone age in ancient Egypt Dr. Holmes has come to the conclusion that some of these had undergone operation which must have been performed with a stone implement.

There are also records of a file being used to shave off the skin, fracturing the locations and wounds of the bone which he described the method procedure to be followed in the case of a fractured skull. His direction cut away a piece of bone so the pressure on the brain might be relieved.

TEJON STREET CARS STOP AT PIKES PEAK AVENUE

Until the paving is completed all street cars on North Tejon street will stop at Pikes Peak avenue, so that north and southbound passengers on Tejon street will be compelled to transfer at the Busy Corner.

This means faster service than was given last week, as it will eliminate switching and changing tracks, and also will enable the street car company to expedite the laying of the new, heavy, rails.

No other changes in the street car schedule are contemplated at this time.

GETS BIG CONTRACT

The Colorado Ingot-Iron and Culvert company has just closed a contract for the material for a 4,000-foot flume, to be constructed near Lummett, Ida. The flume, which will be completed in June, will be the largest, although not the longest, ever built, it is said. It will be 13½ feet in diameter, and the sheets of metal will be 21 feet in width. The mills of the culvert company are being remodeled for the rolling of the sheets.

Enough water will come through the flume to irrigate 25,000 acres of land. It will be taken from the Fayette river through canals for 15 miles, with one mile of piping.

The Colorado Springs company secured the contract because of special construction required for the work. Mayor William Lennon of Manitou is president and general manager of the company.

MEMORIAL SERVICES FOR VICTIMS TITANIC WRECK

Memorial services for the victims of the Titanic disaster will be held in the Hebrew temple, 417 South Cascade avenue, Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. The Rev. Benson Cane will decant the special prayer for such an occasion known as El Mohr Rahkmin (God all merciful). A Novick will speak on the "Virtue of Self-Sacrifice." Both Jews and non-Jews are welcome.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAMS — FOR FEDERAL EMPLOYEES

The United States civil service commission announces that an examination for laboratory assistant in chemistry will be held at Colorado Springs, May 22 and 23, which will be open to men between the ages of 20 and 30, college graduates with practical experience and a reading knowledge of French and German preferred.

A "plate cleaner" also is wanted by the bureau of engraving and printing at Washington. Clare E. Thomas, secretary of the local civil service board, says that an ordinary dishwasher will not do. Any man more than 20 years old is eligible. No examination will be held, ability (training) and fitness counting.

INTEREST CONTINUES

Deep interest and steadily increasing congregations characterize the revival meetings being held every night this week at the Friends church corner of South Tejon and Fountain streets. Evangelists S. B. and Mrs. Shaw are in charge. These meetings will be continued over Sunday.

Woman Finally Recovers From Nervous Breakdown

Impoverished nerves destroy many people before their time. Often before a sufferer realizes what the trouble is, he is on the verge of a complete nervous breakdown. It is of the utmost importance to keep your nervous system in good condition, as the nerves are the source of all bodily power. Mrs. Anna Kounz, 22 Mechanic St., Pueblo, Colo., says:

"For many years I suffered from nervous prostration; I was unable to do any house work and doctors failed to help me. Remedies I tried from 40 to 50 did not affect my health about."

and he procured a bottle. After the first few doses I showed a marked improvement and after taking two bottles I was entirely cured. I have been perfectly well ever since and cannot praise Dr. Miles' Nervine too highly."

If you are troubled with loss of appetite, poor digestion, weakness, inability to sleep; if you are in a general run down condition and unable to bear your part of the daily grind of life, you need something to strengthen your nerves. You may not realize what is the matter with you, but that is no reason why you should delay treatment.

Dr. Miles' Nervine:

has proven its value in nervous diseases for thirty years, and merits a trial, no matter how many other remedies have failed to help you. Sold by druggists. If first bottle fails to benefit money is returned.

T. E. CURTIS REPRESENTS SPRINGS AT CONFERENCE

Colorado Springs will be represented at the Good Roads conference in Salt Lake City tomorrow by Leonard E. Curtis, president of the Lincoln Highway association. Mr. Curtis left last night with a party of Denver good roads boosters, among them C. P. Allen, president of the state highway commission. Others will join the party at Grand Junction and other points.

The Utah state highway commission is strongly in favor of extending the Lincoln highway through Utah, and the joint conference tomorrow is expected to further the project. It is hoped that the work can be pushed to shape for the season's tourist travel.

Another convention of delegates from the two states will be held in Grand Junction next month at which details and reports of the highway work will be considered and final action taken.

COUNCIL HAS POWER TO CLOSE CHEYENNE AVENUE

City Attorney McKesson yesterday informed city officials that if the people of Colorado Springs petition the council to close Cheyenne avenue from Nevada to Weber so that the school board may use the block for school purposes, the council has the power to close the thoroughfare through the passage of an ordinance. He also pointed out that the council would have to submit the ordinance to a referendum vote of the people should there be sufficient protests against closing the avenue.

The question of possible damage suits against the city should the avenue be closed, also is being considered. Some attorneys said yesterday that courts have held that property owners showing damage by an order closing streets, can recover from the city.

WORK BEGINS MONDAY ON NEW HOSPITAL ADDITION

Work will begin Monday on the new pavilion to be constructed by the Visiting Nurse association and the Bethel hospital Board, on the northeast corner of the hospital grounds. The cost will be approximately $4,000, which is being raised by private subscription in this city. It is thought that the work will be completed in about three weeks.

The pavilion will be used for the care of tubercular and other children needing open-air sleeping quarters. It is thought that the building will be of great aid in the work of the Visiting Nurse association.

TO ENLIST CAVALRYMEN

The officers in charge of the local recruiting station yesterday received orders again to enlist cavalrymen for some time the endeavors of the recruiting offices have been turned toward the other branches of the service, because of the attitude of the house of representatives, but now that the bill to increase the cavalry has passed the house and is promised favorable action in the senate, recruiting for this arm of the service will be resumed.

On account of the establishment of the station here that at Trinidad soon will be abandoned.

INDIVIDUAL COMMUNION CUPS FOR ST. PAUL'S M.E.

Dr. Frank R. Hollenbeck of Denver, district superintendent, addressed the third quarterly conference at St. Paul's Methodist church yesterday. Reports were made from every department, and all showed a healthy growth. The Worth league made the greatest gain from 35 to 122 members. The membership of the church now is 234, and the average attendance at the Sunday school, 206.

The church decided to purchase individual communion cups, in line with the sentiment all over the country against the common cup.

The congregation of St. Paul's will attend in a body the meeting at the First Methodist church Sunday, when Dr. C. B. Wilcox, now of Denver, will speak.

MOTHERS DAY SUNDAY

Governor Shafroth has issued a proclamation naming Sunday as "Mothers Day" and recommending that it be observed by the wearing of a white carnation, emblematical of the purity, sweetness and love of mothers.

The practice of observing Mothers Day has become more general every year since the idea was proposed, and next Sunday may a matinal will be adorned with a white flower in honor of a dear mother, perhaps far away, perhaps passed into the great beyond.

Another way the day may be, and will be observed, will be in writing a long letter to the "old folks at home," and many a mother's heart will be gladdened by a message from the absent son or daughter, and let to bless the kindly feeling that inspired "Mothers Day."

MRS. STEWART SENTENCED

Mrs. Olive Stewart, 28 years old, and formerly a school teacher, was sentenced to a year and a day in the state penitentiary Wednesday, in the federal court, Denver. She was convicted of raising a $10 bill to $60, and passing it on a Colorado Springs merchant, several months ago. She was arrested here and later taken in charge by government authorities in Denver. At the time of her arrest, Mrs. Stewart declared that she and her husband were in need of food and that she raised the bill to purchase groceries.

DEMOCRATIC PRIMARIES TOPAY; CLARK IN LEAD

The principal fight in the Democratic primaries in this city tonight will be in precinct 5 ward 2, where much feeling has been aroused by the action of Chairman W. F. Christopher in refusing to accept the nominations of a contesting set of delegates because they were to be elected one minute after the nomination was declared closed. Chairman Christopher's action was in accordance with the letter of the call, although he personally is in sympathy with the contesting delegation.

Wilson men who were present in Christopher's office in the Burns building when the returns came in, quoted as saying that the protest was a "frameup" and that at least three of the names on the contesting ballot were those of Republicans.

In precinct 1 of ward 1, the contest also is very warm. Mr. Wilson and Clark supporters claiming a protest and a large vote is expected. In precinct 1 the polling place will be at 105 Lincoln avenue and in precinct 2, at 1415 Colorado avenue.

The county convention, which will be held at the court house Wednesday at 2 p.m., will elect delegates to the Democratic state convention to be held in Colorado Springs April 26. Indications are that Clanton Clark will get a big majority, if not all, of the Colorado delegates to the national convention, according to a telegram from supporters of the Missourian.

SPRINGS BOYS ENLIST IN U. S. MARINE CORPS

Edward Nye, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Nye of this city, and James Steele also of Colorado Springs, left yesterday for San Francisco to begin a four-year enlistment in the United States marine corps. Edward Nye has grown up in Colorado Springs, where he attended High school, and is well known. His father is the proprietor of Bill Nye's restaurant. They enlisted in the recruiting office here and do not expect to return for two years when they will be over 21 years of age.

ROBBED OF HANDBAG

Mrs. Mary Zarbock of Wichita Falls, Tex., was robbed of a handbag at the Rio Grande station yesterday. Mrs. Zarbock, who was waiting at the station for a train for Tulsa, Okla., had left the bag on a seat while getting a glass of water for one of her children, and found it gone when she returned. Investigators say that a large woman dressed in black took the bag and left the station. Mrs. Zarbock, who is a foreigner, went to the postoffice in an endeavor to locate the thief before notifying the police and the delay allowed the robber to escape.

PRAYER WEEK ENDS TODAY

Yesterdays closing day of the prayer conference at the YMCA, 1000 Tejon, will begin in the morning at 10 o'clock and will be continued until 3 o'clock afternoon. Those who cannot attend are asked to observe the day in prayer for a general revival in Colorado Springs. Special requests for prayer will be received.

Christians may be united in spirit and time and love one another fervently without seeing alike on many points. The love of God will bring us into closer fellowship and united effort for the salvation of souls. This is what will convince the world of the results of the religion of Jesus Christ.

Mrs. Claude Brooks, representing the W. F. Fletcher Society, and Mrs. L. C. Shaw, a deaconess, will be present.

Mr. Claude Brooks, representing the W. F. Fletcher Society, and Mrs. L. C. Shaw, a deaconess, will be present.

The Rev. J. H. Liles said that praying in the name of Christ means more than a mere repetition of words.

Mrs. S. J. Shaw declared that all prevailing prayer is prompted by the holy spirit and that if we honor the holy spirit in prayer, it will lead us to confess our sins and seek for us an intercession.

Among the others who spoke were H. K. Winslow, Rev. A. W. Moore and E. Cain.

HEAVY SNOW BENEFICIAL

Nearly eight inches of snow fell in this vicinity during the storm Wednesday night and yesterday morning, the heaviest fall of the season. The crests at Lake Moraine reported 16½ inches last night, with weather conditions threatening and more snow predicted. The heavy snow will be operated by the water department, it will assist in filling the reservoirs and also stop skating in the city for a day or two at least. El Paso county farmers also welcomed the snow as it helps to insure a good crop for the year.

No damage was done to the work on the paving project already done. Work was practically suspended yesterday, but if weather conditions are favorable today, it will resume.

A steady precipitate was 20 of an inch in the gages in 24 hours since April 21, 1911, when 118 cm. an inch fell. Other record precipitations are April 1, 1905, 1.36; April 24, 1906, 2.5; and April 2, 1911, .81. A precipitation of 7 of an inch means about eight inches of snow. Yesterday's fall was very wet and consequently heavy.

The relative humidity yesterday was 91 the highest since March 1.

ARBOR DAY TODAY

Arbor day exercises will be held this morning from 1 to 10 o'clock at the Lowell school building. Address will be made by City Forester Fred McRae, John Berry park superintendent, or N. N. Caught By Snow Storm in Canon; Narrow Escape

Three teams and wagons that left Colorado City yesterday, for Jones park at the head of Bear Creek canon, to haul wood, were caught by the snow storm Wednesday night, half way up the canon. The drivers, whose names could not be learned, were obliged to leave the wagons stuck in the snow, and come back down the canon, where they made camp. One or two horses went partly over the bank and threatened to drag the whole wagon and other animal with it, but a rope from one of the wheels to a tree held until the horse could be pulled back.

TELL OF HARD WINTER IN SILVERTON DISTRICT

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Barnett have returned from the San Juan country, where Mr. Barnett has been mining during the winter. They tell of some very narrow escapes from snow slides, and say that the winter around Silverton has been the worst in many years. For three weeks they were unable to get their mail, and for days at a time could not even leave their cabin. They fear a number of bad slides in that district this spring.

William J. Palmer post office will hold a regular meeting Monday afternoon in the hill.

Mr. Elmer Graham of Cripple Creek is the guest of Mrs. Albert Allen for several days.

Carl S. J. Johnson and son of Colorado City are in Colorado City to remain for several weeks.

The Pathian Sisters of Colorado City will give a card party in K. P. hall tonight. The public is cordially invited.

Miss Marie Perez, the Mexican woman who was arrested Wednesday on a charge of disturbance, will be tried in Justice Evans' court at 2 o'clock this afternoon. It required two officers to take her to the city jail.

The regular monthly meeting of the Interdenominational League of the Methodist church will be held tonight at 216 German Avenue. The members, who will go costumed in old-fashioned garments, will meet at the church at 7 o'clock.

The nosebag slipped over the eyes of a horse belonging to the Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph company as the animal was eating, yesterday afternoon, in front of the tolls phone office. It ran up and down the block narrowly missing a number of school children. After finally shaking off the bag, it stopped and was easily caught.

The Rev. James H. Franklin pastor of the First Baptist church of Colorado Springs will address a meeting of the Socialists in Schmid's hall, tomorrow night on "The Social Awakening in the Church." Dr. Franklin will give this address for the first time, will take up a discussion of the social movements of the day, the labor question and other like subjects. Following the address there will be a general discussion. The lecture is free and everybody is invited.

WORD FROM WASHINGTON IS EXPECTED HERE TODAY

A reply to letters sent to Congressman Taylor concerning protests against the Colorado Springs-Manitou land bill is expected at the city hall today. Other than press dispute here that the senate bill has been introduced into the house, Mayor Avery has no word concerning developments at Washington. Assessors have been reassured, however, that Cripple Creek has not and does not propose to protest the bill's passage. Victor's protest has undoubtedly reached Washington and it is concerning this that information from Congressman Taylor is expected today.

EX-CONVICT WANTED ON CHARGE SWINDLING FARMER

Local authorities as well as those in various parts of the country are hunting Arthur Verney, released a short time ago from the Canon City penitentiary, who he served a term for forgery. A. J. Haas, an El Paso county former claims that Verney swindled him out of $250.

According to the story told the authorities Verney persuaded Haas to mortgage his farm and buy a lodging house in Colorado Springs. Haas claims that Verney purchased the house but sold it a few days later and swindled with $250. Verney has been followed to different points in and around Colorado Springs, but thus far has not aped capture.

DR. WILCOX TO PREACH

The Rev. Charles B. Wilcox of Denver, former pastor of the First Methodist church of Colorado Springs, will preach the sermon at the Colorado Springs Interdenominational service in Perkins hall Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

THE MAGICAL S. U. S. CALL

Adopted in 1887 as Universal Danger Call for All Ships Jack Bins and His C. Q. D.

Three dots, then dashes, three dots, the call S. O. S., which the International congress at Berlin in 1907 fixed as the universal danger call for all ships at sea and distress calls, may be more than that, yet along the coast it is relayed to naval stations, to agencies for great ocean-going tugs, from ship to ship and from life-saving stations to station until the operator aboard the distressed ship catches the answer of cheer from some nearby liner, reversing her engines as the call comes and standing back in the log for the disabled craft.

It is history that early Saturday morning of January 23, 1909, the steamer steamship Anglo-Saxon were wrecked in a dense fog on the Siasconset wireless station on a sand spit at Siasconset, on the northern end of the little seagirt island of Nantucket.

Caught the C. Q. D. of the Marconi system from Wireless Jack Bins, on the sinking Republic. Ten minutes later the operator had flashed the call from his station throughout the length of the Atlantic seaboard. "C. Q. D. Here Go S," meaning "distress signal received at the Siasconset wireless station, go at once." Came the latitude and longitude of the sinking Republic but a quarter of an hour at the most after she had reeled back under the staggering blow from the Italian liner Florida, and even as her holds were rapidly flooding.

As far south as Charleston the message penetrated and was answered, and more than half a score of vessels within a radius of 200 miles of the sinking liner caught the words and sent their answer that they were racing for the distressed ship. To Charleston, Newport, Boston, Vineyard Haven, Woods Hole and many another port as far north as Halifax, the message traveled and was answered. Not 100 miles away from the sinking Republic the swift liners Baltic, which was near the Titanic, as well as La Lorraine, the Lucania and many another sent their cheering words that they had reversed engines and would soon be there to stand by and give assistance. From Woods Hole the revenue cutter Acushnet raced away from Boston to the rescue after Gresham put out, and off Nantucket the cruising cutters Mohawk and Seneca, hard by the wounded vessel, caught the message and steamed their way to her. All of this is a matter of history, all hung on the simple flash of dots and dashes reducing the dangers of the sea and saving millions of waiting persons from an agony of suspense.

The most recent sea tragedy involving great loss of life was the sinking of the French liner La Bourgogne about 60 miles off Sable Island, in a fog on July 14, 1898, after collision with the British square-rigger Cromartyshire. She sank within 10 minutes after the Cromartyshire had smacked her amidships tearing a great rent in her side extending far below the water line. She had water-tight compartments, but the rush of the sea was too swift for her, and she listed and went down sideways.

It was 6 o'clock in the morning and most of the passengers were asleep. Many who rushed on deck jumped into the sea and some were later picked up by the Cromartyshire's boats. A panic followed the collision, and steerage passengers and members of the crew ironized the few boats that were launched.

Only one woman was rescued. More than 100 of the 384 who were lost were women. Among the saved were 11 second cabin passengers, 51 steerage passengers and 404 of the crew. Captain Delmonio went down with his ship, standing on the bridge sounding taps, with his chief officer beside him.

The compressed air was shot into the tanks. The big steel tube rocked and groaned for an instant and then was still again. Lieut. S. B. Smith in command, ordered the men to run back and forth in the hope of starting vibrations that would release the boat. Suddenly the men were thrown on their backs and the pressure gauge fell.

The crew of a barge overhead saw a long fish nose shoot 100 feet into the air and then the submarine righted itself on the surface. The men were bruised but not seriously injured.

The submarine was drawn under the water by a cable attached to a 10-ton weight at the bottom of the bay, in a special government test to determine the pressure resisting power of the boat at great depth.

The cable was cut, but it was then that the imprisoned men realized that the other cable had caught in the hawse pipe.

Reliable
and Up-to DateWESTERN LEAGUE OPENS
TODAY IF WEATHER'S FAIR

DENVER, April 18.—Snow and rain covered the plains section this morning, assuring gloomy weather fans and indicating the opening of the Western baseball season will be delayed.

Weather permitting, the Western league baseball season will open in four cities tomorrow afternoon. Prospects look bright for one of the most successful years in the history of the organization. Lincoln will cross bats with the Grizzlies, Des Moines plays at St. Joseph, Sioux City at Omaha and Wichita at Topeka.

It is expected that 10,000 fans will attend the game at Broadway park tomorrow afternoon to watch the Antelopes and the local team. The players are in great condition and should put up a stiff game.

The opening in Denver will be celebrated by a parade of the players of both teams in automobiles led by a band. The parade will pass through the principal streets, starting from the Standard hotel at noon.

Governor Shafroth will probably pitch the first ball and Mayor Speer will try to catch it. Two hundred invitations have been accepted to attend the opening by leading business men and officials of the city. The event will be a sort of holiday. Many members of Denver's 400 have made reservations of boxes for the game, and society will be out in force.

The Lincoln team arrived in Denver at 12:25 today on the Rock Island, and is quartered at the Standard hotel. They

LARNED, TENNIS CHAMP,
TAKES UP GOLF GAME

BOSTON, April 18.—William A. Larned is, without question, the most commanding figure in the history of American lawn tennis. During the 10-year period from 1891 to 1901 he was the "uncrowned king of American lawn tennis," although he was never quite able to capture the national title during that time.

Larned first won the championship in 1901, defeating Beals Wright in the final round, and M. D. Whitman, the holder, by default. In the challenge round, he retained the title in 1902 against R. E. Doherty of England, who won the tournament but lost it in 1903 in the challenge round to Doherty's brother, H. L., who won the tournament in that year. Larned played in the tournaments of 1904, 1905 and 1906, but was beaten in 1904 by Karl Behr in one of the earlier rounds, 1905 by Beals Wright in the semifinal round, and in 1906 by W. J. Clothier in the same round. In 1907 he again won the tournament and took the title from Clothier by default of the challenge round.

RYAN WINS WRESTLING
BOUT FROM C. DELIVUK

In an exhibition match at Temple theater last night, Tommy Ryan won two falls out of three from Charles Delivuk of Austria and Kansas, the first fall going to Delivuk in 33 minutes, with a crotch and half Nelson Ryan taking the second fall in 19 minutes with a head scissors and hamper lock, and the third in 25:30 with a combination scissors and arm lock.

The usual ringside challenge following defeat was issued by Delivuk, who looks for a return engagement. It was along the old line—"I have no excuse to make; he is the better man; but I would like a return match," etc. While a combination scissors hold gave Ryan the last two falls, it was noted that in the first bout Delivuk repeatedly broke the hold.

In the preliminaries, Young Harrington won in straight falls from Kid Spooner, securing the first fall in 11 minutes with a body roll, and the second in four minutes with a head scissors. Frank Mirice won the semi-final from Jack Noble of Oklahoma City in 8:40 with a body roll and arm lock.

Nig Clarke, catcher secured by Indianapolis from Washington, is expected to fit a hole in the Indiana lineup which has not had a permanent tenant for several seasons.

Colorado City DEPARTMENT

Caught By Snow Storm in Canon; Narrow Escape

Three teams and wagons that left Colorado City yesterday, for Jones park at the head of Bear Creek canon, to haul wood were caught by the snow storm Wednesday night, half way up the canon. The drivers, whose names could not be learned, were obliged to leave the wagons stuck in the snow, and come back down the canon.

Four of the horses went partly over the bank and threatened to drag the whole wagon and other animal with it, but a rope from one of the wheels to a tree held until the horse could be pulled back.

TELL OF HARD WINTER IN SILVERTON DISTRICT

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Barnett have returned from the San Juan country, where Mr. Barnett had been mining during the winter. They tell of some very narrow escapes from snow slides, and say that the winter around Silverton has been the worst in many years. For three weeks they were unable to get their mail, and for days at a time could not even leave their cabin. They fear a number of bad slides in that district this spring.

COLORADO CITY NEWS NOTES

D. V. Prewett of the firm of Prewett & Bryan is ill at his home in this city.

For genuine Rockvale Canon City Coal see C. M. Sherman exclusive agent.

William J. Palmer post G. A. R. will hold a regular meeting Monday afternoon in the hall.

Mrs. Elmer Graham of Cripple Creek is the guest of Mrs. Albert Allen for several days.

Capt. S. T. Johnson and son of Corcoran, Tex., are in Colorado City to remain for several weeks.

The Ethical Sisters of Colorado City will give a card party in K. P. hall tonight. The public is cordially invited.

Miss Marie Perez the Mexican woman who was arrested Wednesday on a charge of disturbance will be tried in Justice Bryan's court at 2 o'clock this afternoon. It required two officers to take her to the city jail.

The regular monthly meeting of the Intermediate League of the Methodist Church will be held tonight at 216 Hagerman avenue. The members, who will be costumed in old-fashioned garments, will meet at the church at 7 o'clock.

The nosebag slipped over the eyes of a horse belonging to the Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph company as the animal was eating, yesterday afternoon, in front of the telephone office. It ran up and down the block, paroxysm missing a number of school children. After finally shaking off the bag, it stopped and was easily caught.

The Rev. James H. Franklin, pastor of the First Baptist church of Colorado Springs, will address a meeting of the Socialists in Schmitz's hall, tomorrow night. On the Social Awakening in the church Dr. Franklin will give this address for the first time. It will take up a discussion of the social movements of the day, the labor question and popular subjects. Following the address there will be a general discussion. The lecture is free and everybody is invited.

WORD FROM WASHINGTON IS EXPECTED HERE TODAY

A reply to letters sent to Congressman Taylor concerning protests against the Colora to Springs-Manitou land bill is expected at the city hall today. Other in press dispute has been the senate bill which has been introduced into the house. Mayor Avery has no word concerning developments at Washington. Assurances have been received, however, that Cripple Creek has not and does not propose to protest the bills passage. Victor's protest has undoubtedly reached Washington and it is令人 to believe that information from congressman Taylor is expected today.

According to the story told the authorities, Verner persuaded Hays to mortgage his farm and buy a lodging house in Colorado Springs. Hays claims that Verner purchased the house, but sold it a few days later and claimed with $250. Verner has been allowed to different points in and out of Colorado Springs and thus far has not been captured.

DR. WILCOX TO PREACH

The Rev. Charles B. Wilcox of Denver, former pastor of the First Methodist church of Colorado Springs, will preach the sermon at the Colorado church service in Perkins hall Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

A harmless remedy made from common garden sage, quickly restores gray hair to its natural color. The care of the hair to prevent it from losing its color and luster is just as important as to care for teeth to keep them from discoloring. Why spend money for cosmetics and creams to improve the complexion and yet neglect your hair when gray hair is even more conspicuous and suggestive of age than wrinkles or a poor complexion? Of the two, it is easier to preserve the natural color and beauty of the hair than it is to have a good complexion.

All that is necessary is the occasional use of Witch's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, a preparation of common garden Sage and Sulphur, combined with other valuable remedies for dry, harsh, faded hair, dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair. After a few applications of this simple, harmless remedy, your hair will gradually be restored to its natural color, in a short time the dandruff will be removed, and your hair will no longer come out but will start to grow as Nature intended it should.

Don't neglect your hair, for it goes further than anything else to make or mar your good looks. You can buy this remedy at any drug store for fifty cents a bottle, and your druggist will give your money back if you are not satisfied after using. Purchase a bottle today. You will never regret it when you realize the difference it will make in your appearance. Agents the Colorado Springs Drug Co., 101 S. Tejon St.

THE MAGICAL S. U. S. CALL

Adopted in 1907 as Universal Danger Call for All Ships—Jack Bunnies and His C. Q. D.

Never in Days of Unseafared Vessels Have so Many Persons Perished

as on Titanic

Three dots, three dashes, three dots, the call S. O. S., which the International congress at Berlin in 1907 fixed as the universal danger-call for all ships at sea and in distress, may be more than that, yet along the coast it is relayed to naval stations, to agencies for great ocean-going tugs, from ship to ship and from life-saving station to station until the operator aboard the distressed ship catches the answer of cheer from some nearby liner, reversing her engines as she comes running back to the

for the disabled craft.

It is history that early on Saturday morning of January 23, 1909, the lonely wireless station on a sand spit at Siasconset, on the northern end of the little seagirt island of Nantucket, caught the C. Q. D. of the Marconi system from "Wireless Jack Bunnies," the sinking Republic. Ten minutes later the operator had flashed the call from his station throughout the length of the Atlantic seaboard. "C. Q. D. Here So. G.", meaning "distress signal received at the Siasconset wireless station, go at once." Came the latitude and longitude of the sinking Republic but a quarter of an hour at the most after she had reeled back under the staggering blow from the Italian liner Florida, and even as her holds were rapidly flooding.

As far south as Charleston the message penetrated and was answered, and more than half a score of vessels within a radius of 200 miles of the sinking liner caught the words and sent their answer that they were racing for the distressed ship. To Charleston, Newport, Boston, Vineyard Haven, Woods Hole and many another port as far north as Halifax, the message traveled and was answered. Not 100 miles away from the sinking Republic the swift liner Baltic, which was near the Titanic, as well, La Lorraine, the Lucania, and many another sent their cheering words that they had reversed engines and would soon be there to stand by or give assistance. From Woods Hole the revenue cutter Achusnet raced away from Boston the revenue cutter Gresham put out and off Nantucket the cruising cutters Mohawk and Seneca, hard by the wounded vessel, caught the message and steamed their way to her. All of this is a matter of history, all hung on the simple flash of dots and dashes reducing the dangers of the sea and saving millions of waiting persons from an agony of suspense.

Submarine Crew Faces Death as Cable Fouls

SAN FRANCISCO, April 18.—Eight members of the crew of the submarine Carp drank champagne on the bottom of the ocean yesterday and then won a tow with death.

A cable caught in a hawser pipe and imprisoned them for an hour and a half at a depth of 200 feet farther under the waves than a diving vessel ever had gone before.

There was no hope of freeing the boat except by using the compressed air to force out the water in the submerged tanks to give the boat sufficient buoyancy to tear it loose. Then if the cable still held, the men would suffocate.

The compressed air was shot into the tanks. The big steel tube rocked and groaned for an instant and then was still again. Lieut. S. R. Smith in command ordered the men to run back and forth in the hope of starting vibrations that would release the boat. Suddenly the men were thrown on their backs and the pressure gauge fell.

The crew of a barge overhead saw a long fish nose shoot 100 feet into the air and then the submarine righted itself on the surface. The men were bruised but not seriously injured.

The submarine was drawn under the water by a cable attached to a 10-ton weight at the bottom of the bay, in a special government test to determine the pressure resisting power of the boat at great depth.

The cable was cut, but it was then that the imprisoned men realized that the other cable had caught in the hawser pipe.

Only one woman was rescued. More than 100 of the 332 who were lost were women. Among the saved were 11 second cabin passengers, 51 steerage passengers and 104 of the crew. Captain Deloncle went down with his ship, standing on the bridge sounding fare-well with his chief officer beside him.

Death by Freezing

Awaited Passengers

NEW YORK, April 18.—The Dutch oil tank steamer, La Flandre, which came in today from Antwerp, reported an encounter with the ice field on April 11 at 9 o'clock at night in latitude 42° 02' and longitude 00° 07'. The Ing Captain Claude says the La Flandre steamed into a large ice field, which became so packed the steamer could not penetrate it. As far as could be seen from aloft the ice extended in all directions. La Flandre was compelled to put about and steamed for 20 miles to the southwest to clear the field. The temperature of the water near the ice pack was 30 degrees. If the Titanic sank in water registering but 30 degrees those who may have leaped overboard probably survived but a few moments.

Baby's Voice

Every woman's heart responds to the charm and sweetness of a baby's voice, because nature intended her for motherhood. But even the loving nature of a mother shrinks from the ordeal because such a time is usually a period of suffering and danger. Women who use Mother's Friend are saved much discomfort and suffering, and their systems, being thoroughly prepared by this great remedy, are in a healthy condition to meet the time with the least possible suffering and danger. Mother's Friend is recommended only for the relief and comfort of expectant mothers; it is in no sense a remedy for various ills, but it many years of success, and the thousands of endorsements received from women who have used it are a guarantee of the benefit to be derived from its use. This remedy does not accomplish wonders but simply adapts nature to perfect its work. Mother's Friend relieves nausea, prevents swelling of the breasts, and in every way contributes to strong, healthy motherhood. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. Write for our free book for expectant mothers.

OTHER GREAT SEA WRECKS

Never in Days of Unseafared Vessels Have so Many Persons Perished as on Titanic

Before the days of wireless, submarine signals, water-digging longitudinal and transverse bulkheads and doors in them closing automatically, there were many disasters at sea involving the loss of many lives, but never in the old days of the unseafared liners and sailing packets have so many persons perished in a single shipwreck as went to their deaths in the mammoth Titanic. Of course, there never has been a ship with the passenger-carrying capacity of the lost White Star liner.

Among the first disasters of importance on the Atlantic was the foundering of the steamship President, which sailed from this port for Liverpool on March 11, 1841, and was never heard from again. The British steamship Anglo-Saxon was wrecked in a dense fog on a reef off Cape Race, on April 27, 1883, and 237 of the 446 persons aboard were drowned. The steamship Arctic, which was bound from Liverpool, was in collision in September, 1884, with the steamship Vesta, about 40 miles off Cape Race, in a fog, and went to the bottom. More than 350 lives were lost.

The French steamship Ville du Havre, from New York for Havre, was sunk on November 23, 1873, in 16 minutes after collision with the British ship Loch Earn. Only 280 of the 213 persons aboard were rescued. The White Star steamship Atlantic struck the Maris Rock, Nova Scotia, in April, 1873. In heavy weather, and 547 persons out of 736 perished. In May, 1875, the steamship Schiller, founded in mid-ocean, taking down with her 312 persons, the sinking of the steamship Clarendon, in January, 1878, caused the loss of 389 lives.

The steamship Utopia, in collision with Gibraltar, in October, 1892, cost 563 lives. In wild weather in April, 1895, on the North sea, the North German Lloyd liner Elbe, after collision with a British tramp steamship, sank with 363 persons, less than a dozen saved.

The most recent sea tragedy involving great loss of life was the sinking of the French liner La Bourgogne about 60 miles off Sable Island, in a fog, on July 4, 1898, after collision with the British square-rigger Cromartyshire. She sank within 10 minutes after the Cromartyshire had smote her amidships, tearing a great rent in her side extending far below the water line. She had water-tight compartments, but the inrush of the sea was too swift for her, and she listed and went down sideways.

It was 5 o'clock in the morning, and most of the passengers were asleep. Many who rushed on deck jumped into the sea and some were later picked up by the Cromartyshire's boats. A panic followed the collision and steerage passengers and members of the crew monopolized the few boats that were launched.

Only one woman was rescued. More than 100 of the 334 who were lost were women. Among the saved were 11 second cabin passengers, 51 steerage passengers and 104 of the crew. Captain Deloncle went down with his ship, standing on the bridge sounding fare-well with his chief officer beside him.

TRYING TO DISCREDIT ROOSEVELT CAMPAIGN

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Director

McKinley of the National Taft bureau today issued a statement calling attention to the alleged use of money in the Roosevelt campaign.

"The lavish expenditure of money in this campaign by the backers of former President Theodore Roosevelt," says the statement, "has led to the question being raised."

"Were the victories of Roosevelt in Pennsylvania and Oklahoma due to a great popular demand for his nomination or to the use of money?"

TODAY IF WEATHER'S FAIR

DENVER, April 18.—Snow and rain covered the plains region this morning, causing gloom over fans and holding up start of the Western baseball players for a time.

Weather permitting, the Western league baseball season will open in four cities tomorrow afternoon. Prospects look bright for one of the most successful years in the history of the organization. Lincoln will cross bats with the Grizzlies. Des Moines plays at St. Joseph, Sioux City at Omaha and Wichita at Topeka.

It is expected that 10,000 fans will attend the games Broadway park tomorrow afternoon to watch the Antelope and the local team. The players are in great condition and should put up a stiff game.

The opening in Denver will be celebrated by a parade of the players of both teams in automobiles, led by a band. The parade will pass through the principal streets, starting from the Standard hotel at noon.

Governor Shafroth will probably pitch the first ball and Mayor Speer will try to catch it. Two hundred invitations have been accepted to attend the opening by leading business men and officials of the city. The event will be a sort of holiday. Many members of Denver's 40 have made reservations of boxes for the game and society will be out in force.

The Lincoln team arrived in Denver at 12:30 today on the Rock Island, and is quartered at the Standard hotel. They

LARNED, TENNIS CHAMP,
TAKES UP GOLF GAME

BOSTON, April 18.—William A. Larned is, without question, the most commanding figure in the history of American lawn tennis. During the 10-year period from 1891 to 1901 he was the "unconquered king of American lawn tennis," although he was never quite able to capture the national title during that time.

Larned first won the championship in 1891, defeating Beals Wright in the final round, and M. D. Whitman, the holder by default, in the challenge round. He retained the title in 1893 against R. E. Doherty of England, who won the tournament, but lost it in 1895 in the challenge round, to Doherty's brother, H. L., who won the tournament of that year. Larned played in the tournaments of 1894, 1895 and 1896, but was defeated in 1894 by Noel Behr in one of the earlier rounds, 1895 by Beals Wright in the semifinal round, and in 1896 by W. J. Cuthbert in the same round. In 1897 he again won the tournament and took the title from Cuthbert by default of the challenger.

RYAN WINS WRESTLING
BOUT FROM C. DELIVUK

In an exhibition match at Temple theater last night, Tommy Ryan won two falls out of three from Charles Delivuk of Austria and Kansas, the first fall going to Delivuk in 33 minutes with a clutch and half nelson. Ryan took the second fall in 19 minutes with a head scissors and hammer lock, and the third in 25:30 with a combination scissors and arm lock.

The usual ringside challenge following defeat was issued by Delivuk, who looks for a return engagement. It was along the old line—"I have no excuses to make; he is the better man; but I would like a return match," etc. While a combination scissors hold gave Ryan the last two falls, it was noted that in the first bout Delivuk repeatedly broke his hands.

In the preliminaries, Young Harrison won in straight falls from Kid Spooner, securing the first fall in 11 minutes with a body roll, and the second in four minutes with a head scissors. Frank Mirise won the semi-final from Jack Noble of Oklahoma City in 8:40 with a body roll and arm lock.

Nic Clarke, catcher secured by Indianapolis from Washington, is expected to fill a void in the Indiana tourney which has not had a permanent tenant for several seasons.

BALL PLAYERS OF TODAY

LACKING IN RUGGEDNESS

ST. LOUIS, April 18.—I often wonder just what is ball," says Manager Eddie Williams of the St. Louis Browns. "We don't care or care less about money or money or money. We care to make a living, to play ball and these things were part of the game. And when a ball player was relieved he had to come pretty near showing a doctor's certificate before he could get away."

"Now take the old days. When I was working under Tom Doherty in Cleveland uniform in the early nine-ties we won through the season, but exactly it meant was made apparent of all the way. We had one car, Eddie Zimmers, two pitchers in Chicago and Ed Young, two infielders, three outfielders and an extra guy who was supposed to fill any vacant spot. If he had little to do as the other four us were usually on the job, where came he, but a fractured spine or a badly splintered neck could crowd us away from the work."

"Young and Capay pitched practically every game. Young had no more stuff to use than they have now, both he and Capay worked us hard and cracked them over again as much on the ball as they do today."

"Why is it, then, that if 11 men were enough, then 20 or more are not enough now? Why is it that if two pitchers could work through a schedule six or seven can't turn the trick without sore arms, breakdowns, lame backs or something else to annoy them away from the field?"

"Why I've seen Capay stand with broken fingers, have soon him bind them up with tape and still catch great the foul balls hard to believe."

BAT FACTORY IN LOUISVILLE
TURNS OUT 8,000 EVERY DAY

CHICAGO, April 18.—The one most interesting place for all ball players to work. About 100 men are employed at Louisville's big bat factory, which the year round making thousands of bats which retail all the way from the best of its kind in the country and where a cent price paid for bats goes to the nearest bats used by professional ball players are made. When a ball team visits Louisville, every player visits the bat factory and buys all the way from a single bat to a couple of dozen of them, and there is no player of prominence in either big league who has not his own model ready and waiting for him when he comes.

No one can realize how big a business the bat-making industry is until he takes a stroll through the big estate.

HIGH SCHOOL-CENTRAL
GAME IS CALLED OFF

TODAY'S opening interscholastic ball game between the High school and Pueblo Central teams was called off last night because of the condition of Washburn field. Thursday night show and rain turned the playing field into a quagmire.

An effort will be made by the local management today to arrange to have the game played here Monday afternoon, and it is expected that Pueblo will agree to the necessary switch in dates.

With the opening game to be played with Central, probably Monday, the schedule just adopted by the southern division of the league is as follows:

April 20—Central vs. Central at Pueblo.

April 27—Central vs. Centennial, at Pueblo. U. S. H. S. vs. Central at Colorado Springs.

May 3—Central vs. Central, at Colorado Springs. Central vs. U. S. H. S. at Pueblo.

May 10—Centennial vs. Central, at Colorado Springs.

May 18—Central vs. Central, at Pueblo.

May 25—Central vs. Central, at Colorado Springs.

Championship game between winner in southern division and winner in northern division to be played here May 25.

To carry out the Great Western racing circuit, trials which will meet in Dubuque September 15 to 21, articles of incorporation of the Nutwood Irrigation club of $10,000 have been filed.

FIXING THE BLAME.

IT IS a safe prediction that before the full history of the loss of the Titanic is learned it will be found that somebody was guilty of gross neglect. The information now available is so meager that we can only indulge in generalizations.

One of the first questions that arises is, why was the ship permitted to leave port with 2,208 passengers and crew, but with only enough lifeboats to provide for 1,178? Of course it has been explained that the owners of the Titanic believed it to be unsinkable. But after all, this belief was based only on the calculations of its engineers, and opposed to it was the opinion which has frequently been expressed by other engineers and by many experienced sailors, that such huge vessels as the Titanic are especially liable to accident both because of their vast bulk and of the large open spaces which they contain.

Moreover, until the Titanic went to her doom last Sunday night none of the biggest liners has ever actually been subjected to so severe a test, so nobody could say with authority that one of them could withstand it. Now we know that they cannot, but the knowledge has been obtained at the cost of 1,600 human lives and many millions of dollars. It is plain that the owners of the vessel simply took a chance in providing only half enough lifeboats to take care of the passengers and crew. Their part of the penalty for this awful error of judgment, a mere matter of money, is small indeed compared to the part paid by those whose lives were sacrificed.

Captain Smith, of the Titanic was Admiral of the White Star fleet and one of the oldest and most capable commanders in the Atlantic service. True to the traditions of his calling he stood by his post to the last minute and went down with his ship, a martyr to duty.

However, some of the early dispatches raise a question as to whether the collision may not have been caused by an inexplicable failure on Captain Smith's part to recognize the presence of danger. The Titanic sailed from South Hampton on Wednesday, and on Friday and Saturday enormous icebergs off Cape Race were reported by other vessels. This information was sent by wireless, and presumably was received by the Titanic. If this was the case it seems strange that Captain Smith did not change his course to the southward and avoid the danger zone entirely. But in the absence of definite information all this is mere speculation.

It may be a trifle embarrassing to Mr. Bruce Ismay, managing director of the White Star Line, to explain to a Congressional investigating committee how he happened to escape when the officers of the ship remained at their posts. It is true that Mr. Ismay is not an officer of the ship but of the company, so the rule which required Captain Smith and his associates to remain aboard perhaps did not actually apply to him.

Nevertheless, it is because for wonderment that Mr. Ismay alone of all the rich and prominent men escaped. John Jacob Astor, Isadore Straus, Benjamin Guggenheim, Captain Butt, William T. Stead and many other notables stood the test unflinchingly and met death like heroes in order that the women and children might have their places in the lifeboats. Under these circumstances one cannot help wondering why Mr. Ismay received consideration to which he was no more entitled than the others, even though he is an officer of the company.

CHEYENNE AVENUE

THE various problems relating to the erection of a new High School building which have arisen from the purchase of the triangular half-block on the northwest side of Cheyenne Avenue have engaged the serious attention of various committees of the Chamber of Commerce for several weeks past. The cooperation of the Chamber of Commerce was requested by the Board of Education, and in compliance with this request a careful investigation has been made by the Chamber of Commerce Committee on Education, of which Professor Parsons is chairman, in cooperation with the Committee on Municipal Affairs and the Committee on Streets and Highways, the latter committee having been called in because one of the plans proposed involved the closing of Cheyenne Avenue.

These committees in joint session have carefully investigated every phase of the problem, and their recommendation is expressed in the resolution unanimously adopted by the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce last Wednesday, which asked the City Council to vacate the portion of Cheyenne Avenue in the block in question. Since the school district owns all of the property on both sides of the street in this block, the vacating of the street by the city would mean its reversion to the school district, and consequently, its "unqualified control by the board of trustees of School District No. 41."

It should be understood that this recommendation by the directors of the Chamber of Commerce is based on the most recent plan submitted by the architects, which involves the closing of Cheyenne Avenue only to vehicular traffic, but leaves it open to pedestrians. A ground plan of the scheme and a birdseye view of the buildings as they would appear under this grouping, were printed in the Gazette yesterday. These drawings show that Cheyenne Avenue would be left open just as Tejon Street is now left open through the College campus that is, to pedestrians and bicycles.

Abundant space is left on each side of the proposed auditorium building for such traffic. Moreover, the plan contemplates a scheme of arrangement of buildings which would be decidedly attractive, as viewed from the chief vantage point in North Park.

The contentions in favor of this plan are so sound and appeal so strongly to commonsense that there is little doubt of their ultimate triumph. Their adoption would mean economy and efficiency in school management, and would involve no sacrifice on the part of the public.

The directors of the Chamber of Commerce urge that they be made effective as soon as possible to avoid costly delay. For several years the High School has been so overcrowded that it has been necessary for the board to rent additional quarters in other buildings, and from the standpoint of efficiency it is desirable that the additions be furnished and ready for occupancy before the beginning of the next school term in September. We hope that the Council will make every effort to expedite the procedure to insure the early fruition of these plans.

METAPHORICALLY SPEAKING.

From the Decatur, Ill., Republican.

The heavy card storm that fell on Mrs. Elliott yesterday was spanned by the rainbow of delight and the chords of friendship in many directions vibrated anew as the cheery messages brought good wishes from so many kind friends far and near, to all of whom she hereby expresses her warm and appreciative "Thank you," and especially to those too far away to receive expression vive voce.

FROM OTHER PENS

ILLINOIS AND AFTER.

From the New York Evening Post.

It is possible to explain, but it is impossible to plain away, the voting in the Illinois presidential primary. The Roosevelt triumph was sweeping exceeding even the predictions of his managers. It was expected that he would get a large vote, and probably win a plurality of 100,000 over Taft and secure all the presidential delegates, as he appears to have done, entered into no political reckoning. That the blow to the president is severe, no friend of his will think of denying. His campaign managers have long admitted that they regarded Illinois as their "weakest spot," but they could not have imagined that the ground there would so completely fall from beneath their feet. That Mr. Taft should have been so badly beaten in a traditionally Republican state will be seized upon as conclusive proof that his hold upon the affections of his party is but slight. The cry that he cannot be elected will be redoubled.

NEW POLITICAL ALIGNMENT NEEDED.

From Munsey's Magazine.

In the United States, the bipartite system is strongly entrenched—so strongly that during the last 50 years it has never been seriously shaken. Germany and England have the advantage of us, in that their party division, generally speaking, places the conservatives on one side and the progressives on the other side of the dividing line; while in this country we have conservative Democrats and progressive Democrats, conservatives and progressives, and each of these factions has its subdivisions into various shades of opinion.

What we need, more than anything else, is to get a division into progressives and conservatives, so that there shall be a national lineup on opposite sides of the most significant line of demarcation between opposing political elements.

Spring

By WALT MASON

Farewell to snow and frostin', landscapes all congealed; this is the balmy season of which the birds have spied; no more are blizzards tearing across a land despoiled; the farmer, softly swearing, goes forth to plow his field. The old bay broncho's bucking and dancing, on all fours; the housewife is dancin' around with mopstick, meaning to do the springtime cleaning, and drive the men outdoors. The ardent boys are tumblin' into teh swimming hole; the busy bees are bomblin' to gain their daily toll; the candidates are standin' around, our votes demanding, and to us daily handing a wind'g rimecarole. The poets have collected their verses trite and stale; and soon those rhymes, rejected, come back to them by mail; to sell his patent washer the agent, genial Josher, hands out his line of bush or bull coon to get the kale. Oh, Spring, you are a winner, the best thing on the pie! You give us greens for dinner and other things we like; you fill the land with roses, and thaw our frosted noses; we're mashed upon your poser, and hate to see you hik!

It is necessary to curb nearly every Progressive in his disposition to vote bonds for future generations to pay, since we cannot compel future generations to pay present interest.

The opponent most difficult to meet is the one who says to you politely and good-naturedly: "You are intelligent, and must inevitably come around to my way of thinking."

Don't you sometimes feel that you need a guardian? If you ever find a very capable one, have him appointed for me, too.

Another Progressive is causing a great deal of uneasiness among automobile owners, by persistently declaring that all automobile engines now in use are wrong in principle, and must be discarded—not later than next year.

You usually find a Progressive in politics is a rank Conservatively in his personal financial affairs.

A man doesn't care much for a feast of reason and flow of soul unless he does the talking.

After a girl has been engaged a number of years she begins to look like a married woman.

I know two brothers-in-law who are in a quarrel. One of them asked my advice. I suggested that he see his relative, and have a candid talk with him. "I have done that repeatedly," he replied. "Isn't this the situation in your quarrel?"

You say you are fair, and able to see both sides of a question, but your opponent laughs at your statement. Is it possible for a man to fairly consider his opponent's side of a question? Was it ever done?

A man of good intentions will finally get around to a good action as surely as a man with a bad intention will finally get around to a bad action.

THE CHIT-CHIT

—RUTH CAMERON

It is a very common thing for people to regulate their table diet in one way or another. One person tries to eat things that will make him fatter; another endeavors to select a bill of fare which will reduce his weight; an athlete eats muscle-building foods, and so on.

Now, since we know the beneficial effects of regulation in this direction, is it not strange that we do not more often regulate our diet in other things besides food—friends, for instance?

A young girl came home in a very unhappy mood from visiting some friends, who, although good-hearted people, are most emphatically of the earth earthy. They think of little besides clothes and opportunities to display them, and they spend all they can afford and a little more on keeping up appearances. Their visitor is a girl with a very limited income but she always managed to pay her bills, dress herself attractively, and be quite content. But the visit seemed to have entirely changed her. She is discontented with her home, critical of her friends, recklessly extravagant in her purchases, and yet quite content.

Miracles have happened before. Says her mother, "Gertrude shall never visit those people again if I can help it." If we will stop to think, we will realize that our various friends have varying and very distinct effects upon us.

There are those who always turn our attention towards clothes. We talk clothes with them, looking at their new things, tell them about ours and come home thinking of nothing but clothes and fashions and appearances.

We have other friends who stimulate us intellectually; they are reading and studying, they are interested in the topics of the day, they are trying to solve some corner of the world's problem, and contact with them soon makes us think that such things are really worth while after all.

Again we have friends who always send us away feeling mighty pleased with ourselves; and others who make us thoroughly ashamed of our insufficiency. We have friends whose strenuous efforts galvanize us into the desire for constant action, and others who impart some of their own serenity and patience to us. We have friends who curb us with their forthright conservatism, and others from whom we take the contagion of their care-free optimism.

The man who has a sluggish liver will probably know enough to avoid rich and clogging foods even if he likes them and wants them. And yet how many of us, when we feel as if we wanted the pollution of flattery for some bump or bruise on our self-love, know enough to avoid those who will give it to us? How many of us when all astir with some radical scheme are wise enough to go to the conservative friend for criticism, instead of to the radical for encouragement?

To regulate one's diet of vices is hard enough; to regulate one's diet of friends would be even more difficult; but for the man or woman who wants a healthy mind and soul, as well as a healthy stomach, it would certainly be worth while.

INTRODUCE ME, TOMORROW
MATINEE AND NIGHT

In "Introduce Me," which the management of the Opera house will present tomorrow (Saturday), matinee and night, is Miss Della Clarke, the clever author-actress, who is making bid for popular favor with a clean, clever comedy, full of humorous situations and a story that is sustained right to the finish. Miss Clarke plays a dual role, in that she is a club woman to her husband, one crowd of friends, and a successful author to others. The play's plot is built around the "double life" she leads, which gives rise to complications with her husband. The husband dramatizes a book she has written. All the time he is working on it, he hasn't the slightest suspicion that his wife is the book's author. With the success of the play comes the revelation of the author-wife, a straightening out of affairs and finally a last situation, on which the curtain drops.

Among the people assisting Miss Clarke in the presentation of the characters are: W. H. Pemberton, Clare Kral, Gordon De Maffe, A. C. Rivers, Josie Morris, Sullivan, Helen Everett and Martin Mueller. Matinee prices, 25c and 50c. Evening, 50c, $1.00, $1.50. Seats now selling.

"NO WEDDING BELLS FOR ME," AT THE MAJESTIC

A rip-roaring farce, having to do with a spinster, who must marry before a certain date in order to receive an inheritance from her uncle's fortune. How she connived to meet all the requirements of the law, and the many trying moments innocent persons en-

BREAKING OUT COVERED BODY

Where Scratches It Made Sores. Terrible Itching and Burning Kept Her from Sleeping. Cuticura Remedies Completely Cured Her. No Return.

Kankakee, Ill.—Two years ago winter I had a burning out over my whole body. It itched so it irritated me. I got very crazy. It first came out in little pimpls on my back and then it all over my whole body and I lay down to my bed and I could not sleep. When I lay down to my bed I could not sleep because I was so itchy. I tried several remedies all to no purpose. Then I decided to try the Cuticura Soap. I had the Cuticura Soap and Ointment—Ointment—the Rosinatum, for sores for 6 months, and they plainly did me no good. I had no return of the disease. I started to take the soap after the ointment did not help out. I took the soap and using the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I had to take the soap a few days before I could see they were beginning to heal. And I told it to my son.

"Those that lived in the house at the time knew how I suffered, and had the Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured me. I have taken a bath without using the Cuticura Soap, and I do not believe there are better. This for me is all that the Cuticura Soap and Ointment—Ointment—did. Miss Sarah Q. W., Mar. 14, 1911.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment do so much for skin eruptions, poor complexion, red, rough hands, and dry, thin and falling hair, and cost so little that it is almost a steal. And not to mention the Cuticura Soap where, I think, it is the best. It is a perfectly harmless soap and scalp treatment. And the Cuticura Soap and Ointment, the Cuticura Soap and Ointment."

MISS DELLA CLARKE.
